Deaconess Charlesetta Pagan

Deaconess Charlesetta Pagan left this earth peacefully on November 30, 2020 after a brief battle with sepsis. Although the COVID-19 pandemic limited access to family and friends, Charlesetta was surrounded in spirit by a large community of those who love her.

Devoted mother of Tyrone Pagan of Dorchester and Eric Pagan and his wife Christina of Broomfield, Colorado. Loving grandmother of Darian Williams of Atlanta and Imani Williams of Broomfield, Colorado. Daughter of the late Clarence and Julia (Roberts) Nesmith.

Charlesetta was born in Savannah, Georgia, she attended Central High School in Sylvania and then continued on to the University of Massachusetts and Northwestern University to complete her degree.

Her devotion to God was evident in every aspect of her life; serving over forty-years as a proud member of Metropolitan Baptist Church. During her membership at Metropolitan, she served in many capacities including: Diaconate Ministry, Sunday School Teacher, Christian Education Ministry Chairperson, Women's Ministry Chairperson, just to name a few. Charlesetta loved to spread the word of God to those around her, even volunteering to teach bible study classes during her brief time at Marina Bay Assisted Living.

An educator at heart, Charlesetta had a passion for children and their education. She worked tirelessly as a librarian for the Boston Public Schools until retiring in 2009.

Positive, kind, and soft-spoken, Charlesetta lived her life by the mantra, "I'm too blessed to be stressed!"

Memorial services will be announced at a later date.

In lieu of flowers donations can be made in Charlesetta's name to the United Negro College Fund (UNCF), 1805 7th St. NW, Washington, DC, 20001 or online at www.UNCF.org.
